

TRIUMPH Group Benefits: 2025 Benefits FAQs

Will medical plans cost the same in all parts of the country?

No. There are differences in the price of medical plans in different parts of the country—even if you choose the same coverage level and insurance carrier. Insurance carriers charge different premiums in different parts of the country to reflect the cost of medical services by region. It's important to compare the prices available from the different carriers in your area to find the best option for you.

Is TRIUMPH subsidizing the cost of the health care benefit plans?

Yes. TRIUMPH provides credits that you can apply toward the cost of medical and dental coverage.

TRIUMPH credits help to reduce the impact of continued rising health care costs on you. TRIUMPH is committed to offering you a range of high-quality medical and dental options at the best value possible.

Carefully review your options and prices and use helpful enrollment tools to find the right fit for you and your family.

What are Excess Credits?

Sometimes the medical credit that TRIUMPH provides to help pay for your medical benefits is actually larger than the full premium an insurance carrier is charging for the plan chosen. In these cases, TRIUMPH contributes the extra amount into your health savings account (HSA) as Excess Credits (up to an annual maximum of $500 for EE Only Coverage and $1,000 for EE + Dependent Coverage).

You can use your Excess Credits to pay for eligible out-of-pocket health care costs on a tax-free basis. Under government rules, HSAs are only available with the Bronze or Bronze Plus plans, however, not every Bronze or Bronze Plus plan comes with Excess Credits. Excess Credits are not available if you select the Silver or Gold plan. You can see which plan and carrier options come with Excess Credits when you enroll using the TRIUMPH Group Benefits Center website at digital.alight.com/triumphgroup.

Is my share of the medical premium cost $0 if the TRIUMPH medical credit is larger than the full premium for the medical benefit I choose?

No. There is a significant administration cost for the company to be able to provide health care benefits. Those employees whose medical credit covers the full cost of their chosen medical plan will still be required to pay a minimum premium amount to help offset these costs.

How many insurance carriers will be available to me?

The vast majority of employees will be able to pick from four national medical insurance carriers: Aetna, Cigna, Blue Cross Blue Shield, and UnitedHealthcare. In some geographies, employees will also have access to regional insurance carriers with strong local networks. In other geographies, one of the national carriers may not have a sufficiently strong discount network to offer coverage in that area. In some cases, more than one of the national carriers will not be able to offer coverage in a particular geographical area.

In addition, some insurance carriers have a narrow network, which means they are more limited and smaller in their provider network. While these may present a more affordable option, they should be considered carefully based on your needs and whether you can use providers that are in network.

How can I learn more about what programs insurance carriers will offer?

Many insurance carriers are investing in specially designed programs to help you feel your best. You can take the next step on your health journey by learning about programs that cover:

- Virtual care,
- Lifestyle coaching & fitness discounts, and
- Mental health support, and more.

We're all in this together and making healthy choices and actively managing your wellness not only benefits you but can also help us keep medical costs down for all employees. These programs and tools can help you and your family be and stay well.

For more information on virtual care, lifestyle coaching and fitness discounts, and mental health support, review what each insurance carrier can offer you. You can also learn more about what each medical insurance carrier offers on the Your Carrier Connection page on the Make It Yours website.

How do I decide which medical insurance carrier is right for me?

The benefit plans are the same across the carriers. For example, the coverage provisions (deductible, out-of-pocket maximum, etc.) are the same for the Bronze Plus plan offered by Aetna and for the Bronze Plus plan offered by Cigna. The fact that one insurance carrier has lower premiums than the other carriers does not mean that it is offering a lesser policy than the other carriers. However, premiums, networks and prescription drug formularies (which drugs are covered and how much) do vary from carrier to carrier. These are the factors you should consider when choosing an insurance carrier. You can easily view all three of these factors across all of the carriers and plans by using the Help Me Choose tool, which you can find on the TRIUMPH Group Benefits Center website at digital.alight.com/triumphgroup. Click on the How to Enroll button when you log on to the site for a video that will show you how to use Help Me Choose. You can also take advantage of the tools, resources, and information offered through your insurance carrier on the Your Carrier Connection page on the Make It Yours website.

If the plans are the same across the insurance carriers, why are some carriers less expensive than others?

A lower premium from one carrier could mean that it has more insured customers in your region and can receive better doctor and hospital discounts and, therefore, charge lower premiums. Alternatively, the low-cost carrier may be trying to increase its volume of business in your region and is willing to make less profit to win your business.

How should I choose a medical insurance carrier if my dependents and I live in different areas?

Because you and your dependents must enroll in the same option, you may want to consider one of the national insurance carriers that offers national provider networks so that your dependents have access to in-network providers in most locations.

Will I receive new ID cards?

Yes. A new ID card for your medical and prescription drug needs will be mailed to your home. You can also print ID cards for your medical, prescription drug, dental, and vision coverages on the websites of the insurance carriers you have selected.

Why is there a surcharge for nicotine use?

The negative health consequences of nicotine use are well-documented. The tobacco surcharge is intended to discourage nicotine use and encourage healthier choices.

If you or your spouse choose to use nicotine in any form, it is very likely that you will use more health care services than the average non-nicotine user. Therefore, you will be required to contribute a higher amount to the cost of your health care.

Why is there a spousal surcharge?

Subsidized health care plans are a valuable and expensive employee benefit. TRIUMPH is willing to extend this valuable benefit to the families of our employees where no other coverage is available.

However, we will charge a moderate surcharge to employees who have working spouses with access to other coverage, as this coverage is a significant additional cost to the company.

What happens if I don't enroll during the 30-day enrollment window that begins on my date of hire?

If you fail to enroll during your enrollment window, you will not have medical, dental, vision, or voluntary benefits coverage through TRIUMPH during 2025. Keep in mind, if you don't elect medical coverage, you won't have prescription drug coverage, either. And, to contribute to a tax-advantaged spending or savings account (FSA or HSA), you must make an active election.
